An aerial photograph of a city development project. In the foreground, several modern, multi-story buildings with various facades (brick, wood, and concrete) and green roofs are clustered together. A wide river flows along the left side of the image, with a bridge crossing it. A multi-lane highway runs diagonally across the middle of the image. In the background, a dense residential area with smaller houses is visible. A large blue banner with white text is in the top right corner.
